Włocławek pottery is well known from 19th century. Plates, bowls, kitchen utensils and containers, breakfast and dinner sets painted in blue or brown flowers were present in almost every single house in Poland.

Lunch with local specialities

Transfer to the Kujawy Ethnographic Park where old cottages, barns, smithy, potter's workshop, rotating windmill, inn, depot, school are telling the stories about the past centuries. A 19th-century village reconstructed at the Kuyavian- Dobrzyń Ethnographic Park in Kłóbka is reminiscent of a scene from a folk artist's painting. Making butter in churns, groats in mortars, oil pressing, flailing, and washing in washtubs cause that the painting becomes alive. The heritage park is worth visiting mostly during warm season because of farm animals and blooming flowers in the gardens.
